Unicorn Valley Newsletter Term 1 2024

Galloping into Term 1 of 2024 with Resilience and Joy!

With a happy neigh from all our Unicorns we introduce our first newsletter of Term 1 in 2024.

Our School Holiday program came to an end this week. It would not be wrong to rename the last three weeks as a resilience marathon; we started with our first school holiday day thoroughly washed out with 10 hours of rain. Followed by 34 degrees towards the end of the week. However, despite Mother Nature's challenges, we had a great time!

Our young riders were fantastic, we worked in small groups and went between trail rides, theory, work on the menage to apple bobbing and horse-cooky baking. Horses and kids were happy

Continuing from there, we decided to have a few days off, and our horses can have a rest before we dive into our first term 2024. We will start back Monday 29.1. running throughout the week and will see most riders coming back Saturday, 3.2.2024, for a 9-week term.

As usual, we will focus on skill development related to horse riding, horse care, and horse love!

We would also like to support our participants understanding of how the natural world they encounter at Unicorn Valley can be beneficial in developing happiness and awareness, as well as expand and deepen our psychological and physiological development in a forever growing urbanised way of living.

On that note, we wish all of you a great term 1. We will see you soon. (Please be careful on that long and windy driveway of ours).

Best wishes, the Unicorn Team
